Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1-16 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being clearly anticipated by any one of JP 07-289910, JP 05-220403 or EP 0415410.

The instantly claimed invention involves a catalyst and method for treating exhaust gases using such catalyst. The composition contains copper oxide, ZSM-5 or zeolite beta, and at least one oxide of magnesium and calcium.

Each of the applied references disclose compositions containing zeolite beta or ZSM-5, on which copper and alkaline earth metals are deposited prior to calcinations, which anticipates the instantly claimed composition. The compositions are all taught to have utility for treating exhaust gases. The amounts of the catalytic components appear to be embraced by the reference disclosures of effective components. Accordingly, the invention as claimed by applicant is disclosed by the prior art of record. See particularly the English language translations provided with the IDS of May 18, 2005.

Conclusion

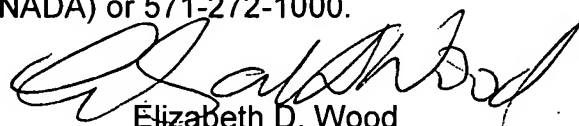

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.

Applicants are advised that any evidence to be provided under 37 CFR 1.131 or 1.132 and any amendments to the claims and specification should be submitted prior to final rejection to be considered timely. It is anticipated that the next office action will be a final rejection.
